Hi everyone,

We have been continuing to work through comments on the Recommendations document (previously Best Practices) and craft new language to address them. I wanted to give you a heads up that you should be getting that from us in early February for review along with a revised Statement and new Executive Summary.

I also wanted to provide an update on Willamette Partnership and The Freshwater Trust's activity in the National Network on Water Quality Trading. The National Network has evolved from discussions over the last year on how to ensure programs operate with consistency, rigor, and integrity on a national scale; and to speed transfer of knowledge, reduce start-up time for new programs. I've attached the National Network Overview, which is a 3-page document describing the goals, objectives, participation, and intentions of that group. Willamette Partnership is working with World Resources Institute to coordinate Network activities, and The Freshwater Trust is participating in those discussions and providing review of Network products.

Please follow up with any questions.

Best,
Carrie
